Kia ora Chris,

The Electoral Officer has advised that the returns can simply be divided equally amongst all members and declared in that manner. You can decide whether you wanted to do that with the whole amount or for each individual expense.

In terms of itemised receipting, you can then attach the receipts to all returns and add a note that this was the receipt for the group and it has been declared individually in an apportioned manner.

Hi Steffi

The We Love Kapiti team of six candidates has shared all expenses re election hoardings and media advertising. As a team, we have also received donations credited to our team's bank account, rather than to individuals.

My question relates to how we can accurately fill in the expense return. Do we have to take each donation and expense and divide each item by 6 or can we compile a description of each expense / donation total and divide the total by six. Either option would mean identical returns from each member of our team.

We await your advice.

Thank you
Chris Harwood
