16. Earthquake Prone Buildings

If a building is found to be earthquake-prone, this doesn't necessarily mean it shouldn't be occupied. The Building Act provides a period of several years for strengthening work to be undertaken. While the risk of harm to people in or around an earthquake-prone building is greater than an equivalent new building, this doesn't typically require short-term action.

The following bookable halls are earthquake prone and have stickers noting this on the building:

- a. Waikanae Beach Hall
- b. Ōtaki Memorial Hall
- c. Mazengarb Sports Pavilion.

By accepting these terms and conditions you are accepting the risk associated with earthquake prone buildings.
